

Select the Best: Recruiting and Selecting Staff

This workshop will assist managers, supervisors and those who are involved in the recruitment process to improve and refine their skills in attracting and selecting the highest caliber staff. This includes initially gaining an accurate understanding of the position needs followed by implementing the latest and most effective methods to entice and select top performers.

Topics covered will include:

- The recruitment and selection process
- Conducting a job analysis
- Advertising and attracting the right candidates
- Methods for effective screening of candidates
- Psychometric testing in the recruitment process
- Types of interviews and questioning techniques
- Avoiding discrimination in the selection process
- Conducting reference checks
- Designing and evaluating your selection system

Outcomes

The workshop is designed so that upon successful completion, participants will be able to:

- Carry out a job analysis and outline the key selection criteria for a role
- Utilise the most up to date and effective ways for attracting a diverse range of candidates across generations
- Identify 'key core competencies' within a role in order to qualify, interview and hire the most suitable candidates
- Design behavioural and situational interview questions
- Display the use of varied questioning techniques
- Understand the types of psychometric assessments used for selection and their applications
- Advertise and select candidates without bias or discrimination
- Conduct a reference check to obtain valuable feedback on past experiences
- Critically analyse the effectiveness of the chosen selection process

The Select the Best workshop will be delivered by Jenny Laing a Drake Behavioural Profiling Specialist. Jenny has worked with some of Queensland's leading private and government sector organisations to assist them with recruitment, selection and retention of high performing individuals. Jenny specialises in organisational behaviour, personality profiling, psychometric assessments, recruitment and selection methodologies.
