

You are invited to attend...

University Librarians Forum 2008

QULOC provides you with a unique opportunity to hear the University Librarians from Queensland, Northern and Inland New South Wales and the Northern Territory speak on a variety of issues in information science and higher education.

This year's forum focuses on the very topical issue of workforce planning in the changing environment of Australian Libraries.

QULOC welcomes Gillian Hallam, Associate Professor, Project Leader for the Australian ePortfolio Project and NeXus Research, who will be presenting the findings of the ALIA and NSLA sponsored NeXus2 Workforce Planning Study.

Sharing their experiences and research on this topic, Professor Hallam will be joined by speakers Evelyn Woodberry, Pro Vice-Chancellor (Academic), University of New England; Shirley Oakley, Executive Director, Library Services, Charles Sturt University; and Graham Black, Director Division of Library Services, CQUniversity and QULOC Convenor.

There will an opportunity for questions from the audience following Associate Professor Hallam's presentation and after each speaker.

This annual QULOC event is always popular, so RSVP soon. Come along and enjoy a lively and informative afternoon with colleagues.
